

Master of Science in Clinical Investigation (M.S.C.I.)

UT Southwestern
O'Donnell School of Public Health

Advance Your Research Career

The Master of Science in Clinical Investigation (M.S.C.I.) program at UT Southwestern offers advanced training in clinical research, covering methodologies, biostatistics, and ethics. This program is ideal for aspiring investigators or researchers with a background in science or health. Its flexible design makes it an excellent choice for those balancing full-time employment.

Program Highlights

Location/Length: In person in Dallas, Texas/1-3 years

Hands-On Experience: Gain practical experience through research projects and clinical trials.

Comprehensive Training: Develop expertise in clinical research methodologies/design and biostatistics, along with essential career development programming.

Flexible Scheduling: Options are available for both full-time and part-time study to accommodate diverse schedules.

Experienced Faculty: Learn from leading researchers and practitioners in clinical investigation.

Career Opportunities: Prepare for advanced roles in research, academia, and health care settings.

Why Choose UT Southwestern?

Prestigious Institution: Benefit from the resources and reputation of a leading medical research center.

Cutting-Edge Facilities: Utilize state-of-the-art labs and technology for research.

Professional Networking: Connect with a network of professionals and alumni in the field.

Personalized Support: Receive guidance from dedicated faculty and advisors.

Application Requirements

- Bachelor's degree in a STEM-related field or a bachelor's in a non-STEM field with a minimum of three years of research experience
- Relevant research experience (preferred)
- Strong verbal and written English language skills (students are required to present research ideas orally and write up their research as a publishable manuscript for graduation)

Application Deadlines:

M.S.C.I. students start in the fall of each year.

Applications open
November 1

Priority deadline
March 1

Applications due
April 30

Our M.S.C.I. application will remain open after the application due date. Late applications will be considered. Admissions decisions will be made on a rolling basis, and admissions will be limited to space available.

Learn more about the program.

Questions?

msciadmin@utsouthwestern.edu